

Cities and Urban Spaces: Chances for Cultural and Citizenship Education

European Conference
29 September – 1 October 2010
Trieste, Italy

Background and Aims

Worldwide, the run on cities keeps going on. The UN predicts that in 2030 61% of the world's population will live in cities. However nowadays, mega- or meta-cities such as Mumbai, Shanghai, Beijing, Sao Paulo, Mexico City or Lagos with their extreme contrast between wealth and poverty suggest a kind of anarchic urbanisation in the countries of the southern hemisphere.

Also European cities change radically: migration and mobility tend to undermine the cohesion in urban societies. Many cities have become complicated entities in which ethnically, socially and culturally segregated communities have developed. Often, extended leeways for individual life designs and collective ways of living are linked to growing disparity and conflicts of identity and self-assertion.

Developments within cities and in urban spaces provide a variety of starting points for new ways of cultural and citizenship education which are being discovered only slowly. Artistic and cultural ways of action and interventions may inform and activate the public, new participative ways of urban development may mobilise the citizens' political and creative potential and support the voices of civil society. Which opportunities and tasks for cultural and citizenship education do result from these new forms and ways of action? May they lead to a reconsideration of previous assumptions and interventions in cultural and citizenship education?

This year's NECE conference can be understood as a laboratory, think tank and project market for different disciplines, methodologies ("expert cultures") and practitioners, bringing together the variety of 'urban' discourses and practices in the cities of Europe in order to look for new approaches to cooperation and projects.

PROGRAMME

Wednesday, 29 September 2010

02:00 pm Parallel Workshops

Which are the current issues, topics and action fields of and in cities and urban spaces in Europe? How can cultural and citizenship education in this new space of living and working which we call “city” be described and what will it be like in respect of actual civic practice and engagement? In the course of parallel workshops, possibilities and prospects of cultural and citizenship education will be discussed in the context of urban development and urban culture, at first from a scientific-didactic point of view. Secondly, various interdisciplinary dimensions of the topic will be illustrated by good practice projects in Europe.

06:30 - Consultation & Networking Panels

07:30 pm In three panels, we would like to support you and your organisation regarding the following issues:

1. EU funding in the Field of Citizenship and Education: Next to national, numerous EU driven programmes are a potential source for project funding for both institutions and NGOs. Although there is no universal procedure, there are certain steps, which help to identify and understand the programmes, as well as improve the quality of a project application.

Isane Aparicio, EU Affairs Consultant, Schuman Associates (Belgium)*

2. Funding for Cities and Urban Spaces: Cities and regions with all the subtopics and the challenges that go along with urbanity find their expression in a range of policies and programmes of the EU. In addition, there are numerous programmes driven by different DGs, initiatives by the Council of Europe, by the UN, UNESCO and networks like EUROCITIES that support you and your project on sustainable urban development.

Nils Scheffler, Freelance Consultant (Germany)*

3. Empowerment for the Non-Profit Sector: Participation in civil society is one of the essential driving forces of sustainable development. In this session you will gain a sight into the range of skills required to manage successfully in the non-profit sector. Leadership, time management, teambuilding and effective networking are just a few of them.

Sonia Herrero, HRights CONSULTANCY (Germany)*

08:30 pm Lecture
Veit Heinichen, Author (Italy)

Moderation: Alexandra Hagemann, Goethe-Institut Triest (Italy)
